DAYTONA NUMEROOS LAY LOW HIDE BEAR IN VOLUSIA COUNTY

Saturday evening, Luke Wilder, John Roberts and other more or less mighty Numeros of local fame went over to the Indian Lake region in search of big game. They had previously received the tip that a big black bear—one that had successfully eluded hunters from far and near for the last five years—had been seen or heard prowling about Indian Lake, lately. Arriving at their destination, the hunters plunged into the swamp and located themselves at stations they considered brim might stalk within gun-range of. Finally, their patient watchfulness was rewarded. About daybreak Sunday morning Mr. Wilder heard a shambling and a growling a hundred yards or so from his hiding place. He waited for further developments, which were not long in coming; in a minute or two there loomed up before the hunter's vision the bulk of a bear, an enormous male evidently out foraging for a shot for his breakfast. That bear looked like an overgrown elephant to Mr. Wilder, and he stirred slightly; hearing the brush rustle, brim started to investigate, probably thinking a fat swamp hog was waiting to be dined upon.

On came the enormous creature to within about 25 yards of the man with the gun; then the bear scented trouble, and up he reared, after the fashion of his kind; up, up he stretched until his terrifying red mouth and cruel, death-dealing tusks were at least 30 feet above his hind feet (so it seemed to the lone hunter in the dim, damp dawn). Bang! a load of buckshot tore into the bear's breast; bang! another load entered his hindquarters as he turned to run. It was all over: the old king of the woods collapsed—dead. Nevermore will he terrify the wild shots and rabbits and berry patches of Indian Lake swamp.

Mr. Wilder and his associates, after much hard work, loaded the great bear on a motor truck and brought him to Daytona where the skin was removed. Dr. W. W. Wilder has the huge hide, and expects to have it treated and made into a rug for his office. The bear's weight has been variously estimated at from 500 to 650 pounds.

ENJOYED PLEASANT TRIP ON THE SWAN TO EAU GALLIE
Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Spring and their house guest, Miss Dorothy Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Crouch and daughter, Miss Julia Crouch, and Capt. C. A. Young, made the trip to Eau Gallie on the steamer Swan on her last trip south, leaving here Saturday and returning this morning. They had a delightful time and are unanimous in declaring it to be one of the finest water trips to be found here. The Swan carried a full passenger list, and on the return had a cargo of 1,100 boxes of oranges consigned principally to New York via the Clyde line. The party insist that if the beauty and comfort of the trip to Eau Gallie were generally known the Swan would be unable to accommodate the people wanting to make it. Miss Loomis, who is from Victor, New York, stopped over at this place on her way to Miami in the fall and again Friday on her way north, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Spring.

A. E. Donnelly returned Friday evening from New York where he had gone the early part of the week to attend the wedding of his childhood friend, John D. Hass, to Miss Alice Flammer, of New York. The wedding took place Wednesday. Mr. Donnelly acting as best man.

SEVEN PROMINENT MEN ARRAIGNED IN DAYTONA J. P. COURT

Before Justice M. G. Rowe, Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock, seven prominent citizens of Daytona were arraigned on charges of gambling, preferred by Joseph Osborne. For several days it had been talked on the streets that something of the sort was about to be done. At about the time, or shortly after, the Daily News went to press Saturday afternoon, Mr. Osborne appeared before Justice Rowe and had warrants issued against A. J. Malby, R. S. Maley, Otis Pellicer, H. T. Titus, W. K. Perkins, H. E. Quigg and H. F. Thompson.

Each of the above named gentlemen was present in court this morning, and each pleaded not guilty to the charge against him. They were represented by Attorney F. W. Pope. Further than to plead not guilty none of the men made any statement, and no other evidence was introduced for the defense.

The witnesses for the state were Joseph Osborne, Geo. H. Clark and Mrs. Joseph Osborne. The gambling was alleged to have taken place on the night of April 22d, in the chambers of the board of trade, on Volusia avenue. When the evidence was all in, Attorney Pope, for the defendants, moved that the cases be dismissed on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to warrant conviction, but Justice Rowe overruled the motion, stating that his is not a trial court for criminal cases.

Messrs. Titus, Perkins, Quigg and Thompson were ordered held for trial in the county criminal court, their bonds being assessed at $100 each. The cases against Messrs. Malby, Maley and Pellicer were dismissed.

The men remanded to the higher court immediately, of course, gave the bonds required of them.

Criminal court convenes Tuesday at DeLand, and it is probable that the cases will be tried this week.

APRIL THE TWENTY-SIXTH, CONFEDERATE MEMORIAL DAY

In almost every locality of the southern states today—April 26th—is being observed as Confederate memorial day. In practically all of the commonwealths, including Florida, south of the Mason and Dixon line, April 26th is, by statutory provision, a legal holiday. In Daytona, where the population is overwhelmingly made up of people from the northern states, no formal observance of Confederate memorial day is made. The usual custom in this locality is for the handful of ex-Confederate soldiers and their descendants to unite with the larger number of Union soldiers and their descendants in appropriately observing May 30th, national memorial day, or Decoration day.

SUTHERLIN & COMPANY
WON'T TAKE BOND ISSUE
The board of public works today received a telegram from Sutherland & Company, of Kansas City, saying that under existing conditions they would not take the remaining $150,000 of drainage and sewerage bonds. Several days ago this company entered into a contract with the city to take the bonds and deposited a check for $5,000 as a forfeit. The check was certified by the firm itself but not by any bank and the check was returned. Today the telegram, declining to take the bonds, was received.

PALMETTO CLUB TO SUPPLY READING MATTER FOR CONVICTS

At a meeting of the executive board of the Palmetto club Mrs. Geo. N. Chamberlin was appointed chairman of a committee to supply the convicts of the county with reading matter. Mrs. Chamberlin will appreciate donations of books and magazines for this purpose, and as she will be north during the summer, County Commissioner J. D. Maley has kindly consented to see that books and magazines so contributed are delivered to the county prisoners, if left at the Bingham & Maley company store. This is a new work with the Palmetto club, but is in practice by other women's clubs in the state.

"COBE" DELIGHTED GERMAN SEAMEN

Several days ago Coburn's Greater Minstrels appeared before a big audience at Newport News, Va., where two German cruisers, the Prinz Eitel Frederick and Kronprinz Wilhelm, have been interned for some time. Because J. A. Coburn, owner and manager of the show, lives here, and he and several of his comedians are well known locally, the following from a Newport News paper will be of more than ordinary interest to Daily News readers:

"Seamen from the German raiding cruisers, Prinz Eitel Frederick and Kronprinz Wilhelm, last night saw for the first time in their lives a real American minstrel show when they attended a performance of J. A. Coburn's Greater Minstrels at the Academy of Music. They had been permitted special shore leave by their commanders after months at sea in destroying the commerce of enemy nations.

"In sharp contrast to the dull existence aboard the converted cruisers, the seamen, many of them reservists in the kaiser's navy, spent three hours in solid laughter at the antics of the score of comedians and dancers and marvelled at the notes reached by the double quartet of ballad singers.

"One of the hits of the performance was the song, "Let Us Have Peace," as sung by Justin McCarthy, whose wonderful tenor voice in the first part attracted round after round of applause. "You Are More Than the World to Me," by William Church, also scored.

"The German seamen, despite the fact that Joseph McGuire is a citizen of an enemy country, disregarded that fact when they heard his rich English baritone give "Roll On, Beautiful World, Roll On." They refused, however, to applaud "Tipperary," sung by the Metropolitan Four.

"Beyond all doubt the salient feature of the performance proved to be Charlie Gano, whose songs and funny stories kept the large audience in a constant uproar. "All the Girls Are Lovely by the Seaside," a topical song with witty lines written by Mr. Gano, forced seven encores."

MERCHANTS AGREE TO HOLIDAY CLOSING

COPY OF ORIGINAL CLOSING AGREEMENT CIRCULATED AND VERY GENERALLY SIGNED BY BUSINESS PEOPLE.

We, the undersigned merchants of the city of Daytona agree to observe the following holidays, by keeping our places of business closed all day on Decoration Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's days.

Grocery and meat markets to stay open till 9:00 o'clock.

We also agree to close every Thursday at 12:00 o'clock noon, beginning on the first Thursday in May and ending the last Thursday in September.

The foregoing is a copy of the original closing "agreement" entered into by the merchants of Daytona a number of years ago and circulated again last week by Benford Deacon, secretary of the Daytona board of trade. Mr. Deacon failed to see a few of the business men and in a very few instances those seen would not agree to close their stores. The Daytona Cigar company, the J. G. McCrory company, the photographic studios and the barber shops agreed to close only for the Thursday afternoon holiday during the summer months, but not for the regular holidays.

Following is a list of the names attached to the petition:

"Custom becomes, as it were, another nature." People seem to have been living much as usual in the houses on the Menin road during this terrible time, and ten minutes after a shell had wrecked a house Mr. Pilkington photographed people hunting for souvenirs. One thing that astonished him was the sight of some children playing with toys on a doorstep in one of the hottest places.

He photographed a soldier having his hair cut by a comrade with shells falling all around at a spot christened by the soldiers "Hell Corner." He saw the French burying their dead in layers in a big hole made by a Jack Johnson. "They were like herrings in a barrel." He insisted that there is nothing picturesque to be seen, and his photograph of a line of guardsmen advancing to the attack showed nothing but a few blobs of khaki in a muddy field.

MUSIC CURES WAR'S INSANE

Helps Restore Faculties Lost as Result of Horrors at Front.

London, England.—Music as an aid in the recovery of mental faculties lost as the result of harrowing experiences at the front, is used with success at the hospital for paralysis,

Maida-Vale, London. The hospital authorities pointed to the case of Bands-man A. G. Reynolds of the Second Wiltshire regiment as typical. He was buried in a trench for 13 hours by the explosion of a German shell at Ypres and for three weeks afterward his mind was a blank. He was brought to London and given "treatment" by the piano and other musical instruments. He began to improve immediately and to assist the treatment of music which had been played to him while he was left in his room and on his bed. Gradually he began to read the musical notation and later the ordinary printing.

The announcement says that Peg-attacked, at a great height, and caused the fall of a German machine.

"Soon afterward he attacked two other aircraft, causing the first to fall and the second to land."

Austrian Minister.

Vienna.—The Austrian minister of that the efficiency of the army and the confidence of the civilian populahusbandry. He, therefore, urges that no inch of ground remain utilized and that such crops in especial be cultivated as are directly available for human nourishment.

SNAPPING THE WAR

English Photographer Follows
Shells With His Camera.

See Houses Fall and Then Rushes
Into the Ruins to Take Pictures—Tells of the Ypres Fight.

London.—Christopher Pilkington is making an official regimental record of the doings of the Scots Guards at the front. Armed with a camera he has permission to go anywhere and photograph anything.

Lecturing before the Selborne society Mr. Pilkington's descriptions of the terrible fighting round Ypres were full of the realism possible only from a man who had lived with the soldiers as one of them.

Of the 1,000 men who left the Tower with him on September 15 only 100 now remain and of the officers there is a remnant of two.

Round about Ypres the Seventh division got into the thick of the German guns. "You continually heard men who had been through Indian campaigns and South Africa say that what they had been through before was an absolute picnic compared to what they had to put up with from the Germans."

The battle of Ypres, which lasted for weeks and is not over yet, was for Mr.
Pilkington a time of cycling about with his camera, usually under shell fire, taking extraordinary pictures of smashed up houses and anything particularly exciting that happened.

Mr. Pilkington was so near the actual thing that he would see a shell fall into a house full of sleeping soldiers, and a few minutes afterward would rush in with his camera and take a photograph of the horrible mess inside. He said that after a time men were curiously indifferent about the shells, and he showed a photograph of some transport drivers calmly gazing round to see exactly where the shells were going to fall and if it was time to move on.

MIMIC AIR FIGHT RESULTS FATALLY

Unusual photograph of falling aeroplane in which Frank Stites was killed at Universal City, Cal. At the time of the accident Stites was taking part in the making of a moving picture play film and had just dropped a bomb on an aeroplane that had been started across a canyon. The explosion of the bomb and destruction of the aeroplane just below created an air pocket and Stites' machine was dashed to the earth almost at the feet of some 2,000 spectators. The picture shows Stites' machine as it headed for the earth. Before it struck the ground it turned completely over. The photograph was taken by U. K. Whipple, staff photographer of the Animated Weekly.

HIGH PRICES KILLED

The General says:
When we entered the field the price of good roofing was too high. With our big mills, enormous output and modern selling methods we can sell the best roofing at a reasonable price. This has been done to such a great extent that high prices have been killed. Now you get the highest quality at a reasonable price when you buy

Certain-teed
Roofing

But there is another great danger. Unknown goods with unknown brands and unknown qualities are being offered at prices that are too cheap for safety. It's a long, long chance you take when you buy these cheap goods. Avoid extremes of cheap prices as well as high prices. Know that the company whose name appears on the goods has the ability to make a good quality roofing at a reasonable price, and that it is guaranteed by them to be the best roofing possible to make; that the company does not sell anything at a higher price, and that the price at which it is offered to you is a reasonable but not a cheap price.

Certain-teed Roofing is guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years, according to whether the thickness is 1, 2 or 3 plies respectively. You remember this guarantee is backed by the largest mills in the roofing and building paper industry. Ask your dealer for these goods, and be sure they bear our label. The price will be reasonable.

THE EUROPEAN WAR

THE GERMAN VIEW.

By Hugo von Kleist.

The Chicago election is a memento mori for the Wilson administration. The country has reached the end of its patience with the weak-kneed sophist in the White House and his preposterous secretary of state. We cannot reverse the policies of the spineless "statesmen" whose subservience to cowardice and greed makes us ashamed of being Americans, but we can punish them at the polls. The resentment against the administration, strong in every section of the country, is most clearly defined with Americans of foreign descent. The recent full-page appeal signed by the editors of publications of many alien tongues that are spoken in our country side by side with the English language, French, Swedish, Polish, Russian and Italian, demonstrates that the severe condemnation of the attitude of the Wilson administration on the subject of the export of arms is not confined to its German and Irish exponents. Those of us who have mastered two tongues and whose horizon stretches beyond the confines of the United States realize more fully than others that the way of the Wilson administration is the way to ruin.

At any rate, some one in Germany must see that to perish by inviting universal enmity might impose on the sufferers themselves for awhile, but would deceive neither outside nations nor the future historian—least of all the eye of Omnipotence.

THE ALLIES VIEW.

By Albert W. Bryce.

It may be doubted whether anyone in Germany, even in the ruling circle, has yet so far given up the struggle as to yield to the counsels of despair. It is more likely that the blowing up of the Katwyk and other minor outrages of the same sort are mere swaggering blunders of young officers, parallel cases to the William P. Frye by the Eltel Freidrich. Probably the Berlin government will apologize and compensate rather than have 300,000 Dutch troops with 500,000 of Kitchener's new men advance on the indispensable Essen, which is less than a hundred miles from the frontier of Holland. There would be small glory in such an end to the contest.

At any rate, some one in Germany must see that to perish by inviting universal enmity might impose on the sufferers themselves for awhile, but would deceive neither outside nations nor the future historian—least of all the eye of Omnipotence.

Beware of Discontent.

Discontent is the father of temptation.—Amiel.

Not Too Long.

Conversation among a group of visiting housewives had turned upon the boiling of eggs, and the little daughter of the house explained that she knew how to boil eggs, and always boiled them "just eight minutes." "Eight minutes, dear!" cried one of her listeners, in amazement. "Are you quite sure you boil them so long? I should think that would make the eggs very hard." "Oh, no, indeed, Mrs. Blank," was the child's confident answer; "really, they're awfully loose!"

Immortality of Lower Animals.

If man is immortal, so are the lower animals. Such is the conclusion at which that able student, Ernest Bell, M. A., arrives after years of patient research. He neither affirms nor denies that human and subhuman will live hereafter. His one contention is that what befalls the one will happen to the other.

The Potato Cure.

The old-fashioned person who carries a potato in his pocket to ward off attacks of rheumatism may be wiser in what some have termed his "superstition" than we wot. Up-to-date medical science in a recent book on "The Therapeutic Value of the Potato," calls attention to the value of this tuber in the treatment of inflammation of the joint fluid (synovitis), gout, lumbago and rheumatism. The potato is not described as an article of diet, either boiled or baked, nor as German, country or French fried. It could scarcely be professional to prescribe anything quite so much to a patient's liking. But this curative agent may be used raw by means of a bandage and in some cases—no one can now escape the little syringe—is to be used hypodermically. After all, however, the potato in the pocket will appeal to many as a simpler, convenient and perhaps quite as efficacious a remedy, placebo or amulet, as any the pharmacist may provide.

Is Realism Carried Too Far?

We have carried the cult of realism too far in our theater, till our plays have become, in truth, so realistic that they are not even true of the majority. Only a small section of the public, in its most careless hours, ever talks as slantly and sloppily as the characters in a Cohan comedy or any one of half a hundred recent American dramas we might name. Moreover, if realism means that we shall hear no more beautiful language on our stage, no more careful phrasing, no more poetic figure nor eloquent period, then let us have done with realism, for good and all. Fortunately, however, men and women still exist who can and do talk well and carefully and eloquently. We should find entertainment in seeing them represented on the stage, and in the skill of any playwright who can heighten by his style the charm of well knit, virile, beautiful dialogue.—Walter Prichard Eaton, in American Magazine.

LONDON, April 25.—Mrs. Keating, who was 18 years old when she died, among her presents was a gold bracelet bearing the flags of Great Britain, France, Russia, England and the United States, done in jewels and gold enamel. Originally it was intended to have pictures of the rulers of the countries of the Allies, with President Wilson, as a friend, but finally decided to use the flags as a more permanent souvenir.

This is but one example of the fact that the English court grows daily more pro-American, and if matters at issue with the United States could be settled by royal courtesy, compliments and expressions of good will, no questions would be long under discussion. There is little doing in English court circles at present, but the Anglo-American contingent always holds a place in whatever festivities may be in progress.

A False Accusation.

"Well, Bulginback," severely began Squire Ramsbottom, "you are charged with cursing your mule in loud and boisterous manner in the public highway, and further abusing the animal by hitting him with a brick. What have you to say for yourself?" "Wy, sah, yo' honah, o' cou'se, I says 'Not guilty,' uhkase dat's p'ntedly what I is," replied the citizen of Senegambian descent, who lounged in front of the bar of justice. "Yassah, I's too smart a puson to 'buse a good mule dat-uh-way. I was 'dressin' dem salubrious remahks to muh wife, what was in de waggan' and dodged when I th'owed de brick at her."—Judge.

Rubens' Masterpiece.

Antwerp cathedral's greatest treasure is Rubens' "Descent From the Cross," said to have had its birth in the desire of the painter to avoid a lawsuit. At the command of Albert and Isabella he had consented to make Antwerp his home, and built himself a house which unfortunately trenched on the ground of the Honorable Company of Arquebusiers. Rather than pay compensation in money Rubens offered to paint the plaintiffs a picture of St. Christopher, bearer of Christ and patron saint of the guild. The magnificent work was done and placed in position in the cathedral in 1612. There is a legend that the head and neck of the Virgin having been damaged by riotous students in Rubens' studio, Van Dyck was selected by the culprits to repair the damage, which was done so well that the master gave the sons of Bellai.

Seeking Tenants.

A fellow was telling us that when he got the job as a renting man he was so green he started seeking tenants in quite an original way. He called on the fire stations covering localities where his buildings were situated and a box of cigars to the firemen gained a promise to phone him every time a fire occurred. Day or night he covered the fires. It wasn't very difficult to get tenants, as he arrived at the psychological moment when a man's store or office was in flames and anything in the way of floor of this kind was appreciated and many of these tenants became permanent, for naturally, after being secured under these exceptional circumstances, a strenuous effort is made to give them better service than they had previously.—Building Management.

Yellowstone Park.

The Yellowstone park has an area of 2,142,720 acres. The park is in Montana, Wyoming and Idaho, and was established in 1872. The only park on earth that can compare with the Yellowstone in size is the one in New British Columbia, Jasper park, recently taken over by the authorities of the new northwestern territory, which covers 3,200,000 acres—about the size of the state of Connecticut.

Unexplored Umgava.

There has not been a careful exploration of the geographical formations of Umgava, and such observations as have been made are so limited that they afford only the means of reaching a rough estimate of the extent and distribution of the different rocks. It is known that there are large iron ore deposits on Clarke, Armstrong and Curran islands, in Hudson bay. Two of the islands are estimated to contain about three hundred and sixty-five million tons of iron ore. From $50,000 to $60,000 has already been expended in the exploration of these iron deposits. The ore is said to be of fine quality, the beds ranging from seven to fifteen feet in thickness.

At a hospital in the mountains, Mrs. Keating, wife of R. L. Keating, died just as she was to go an operation for a malady that had come on for some time.

The remains, of the deceased lady, were interred in Daytona at 12:30 in the afternoon, before funeral services were held. Rev. Robert McKenna, of Mary's Episcopal church, at the home of Mrs. Keating, father of Mrs. Keating, was present. The obsequies were conducted at Pinewood cemetery and Mrs. Keating was 18 years old and was held in high regard by a large circle of friends in her home city. She had many friends in numerous friends in Daytona and the peninsula towns.

Surviving Mrs. Keating are her husband and other relatives.

THE WEATHER.

How to Relieve Insomnia.

To relieve this distressing condition it is always best to do what is easiest and simplest. Very often one cannot sleep for want of nervousness. This may be relieved by overexertion and a successive fatigue. If nervousness is tired, and all of a time need quieting by warm baths, prolonged warm bath at bed time followed by vigorous rubbing of the body when other methods have failed. There is indeed nothing so good as a bath after a day of travel. It is really necessary for a person, too—for during the day exposed many times to intense heat all the time to dust which is contaminated with bacteria. In the bath it is a good practice to drink something—a glass of cold milk, a sandwich or a sandwich or a glass of cold milk. Many persons, wake up at night, probably two or three after retiring, and remain until daylight. Food upon will break up this habit. It is best to give baths and foot bath before resorting to the medicines.

Being Philosophical.

A woman of varied and wide experience told me that she had found that one can view any situation with calmness, provided the effort is enough. "You cannot best care," she asserted, "and when you can truthfully repeat that to yourself you can overlook slights and forget to be resentful and treat the body with courtesy." She means that the man or woman who is kind and blunt, who goes about humanity on the knuckles and of the same, is lacking in it. It is pride that urges us to the best of everything, she means to show a smiling face to the world we feel more like crying, to cover the defects in those who are to us by ties of any sort. It is righteous pride, the loss of which a person might deplore."—Exclusive.

Paid for the Shutter.

A tradesman in a certain town box outside his shop one day, "For the Blind." Most of his customers dropped in pennies, and commented him on his charity. A few weeks afterward the box disappeared. "Halloa! What's happened to the box for the blind?" he was asked. "I got enough money," he replied. "And," pointing upward to the canvas blind that sheltered his window, "there's the blind. Not is it?"—London Answers.
